Re: Web Site Redevelopment

George,

Solve Projects recently undertook a refresh of our website to update layouts, images and content and to allow it to be used efficiently by various devices. This involved the completed redesign of the site. We decided to use the services of CBIT as they undertake our web hosting.

The work that CBIT's web development team undertook was cost effective and timely, providing for us a user friendly portal that has provided concise information about our business for organisations and individuals.

The website was developed using Word Press and clear videos that show how information can be updated and altered by ourselves was provided by their development team. Any issues or questions we had in relation to the site was addressed quickly, completely to our satisfaction. I wouldn't have any hesitation in recommending their services to anyone looking for web development services.
